Compressions fittings are an excellent choice to connect rigid tubing systems and withstand higher pressures than barbed fittings. Assemble the fitting to the tubing by sliding the tubing through a sealing ferrule and using the nut to compress down to form a secure seal.

For material descriptions, refer to page 274.

Accessories (for Compression Fittings on pages 274-278)

Get pressures up to 225 psi without a grooving tool.